

#mindhealthy@home

Looking after your family's emotional wellbeing at home

This booklet has been put together by Liverpool Mental Health Support Teams, and city partners as part of Liverpool's Whole School Approach to Mental Health and Emotional Wellbeing.

Over the next few weeks we will all experience extra pressures that will affect how we think and feel. It's important to recognise that all of us have mental health and, just like our physical health, at this time it's important to look after it.

Inside this book are a few tips, activities and useful information to help you to keep yourself and your family emotionally healthy at home.

It's good to talk

We all get anxious and worried - especially during times of uncertainty. Anxiety is a natural way of dealing with the dangers around us and can impact the way we feel both emotionally and physically. For more information about this have a look at www.mind.org.uk

Just like you, your child may be feeling anxious or worried at the moment about all the changes and uncertainty that have arisen as a result of the coronavirus. They may be worried about their loved ones, falling ill themselves, concerned about what they are missing at school and generally missing their friends and family. One way that we are communicating about how we feel in schools is to ask how we are feeling on a scale from 1-10 (1 being low, worried, angry etc, and 10 being happy, optimistic etc). Primary schools call this the ROAR rainbow. Using this simple tool can help us to see what is normally hidden - our feelings.

Some children may not want to talk about or may not be concerned about the virus, whereas others will. Unicef has given some useful guidance for talking to children about Coronavirus:

1. Ask open questions and listen

Start by inviting your child to talk about the issue. Find out how much they already know and follow their lead.

Most importantly, don't minimize or avoid their concerns. Be sure to acknowledge their feelings and assure them that it's natural to feel scared about these things. Demonstrate that you're listening by giving them your full attention, and make sure they understand that they can talk to you and their teachers whenever they like.

2. Be honest: explain the truth in a child-friendly way

Children have a right to truthful information about what's going on in the world, but adults also have a responsibility to keep them safe from distress. Use age-appropriate language, watch their reactions, and be sensitive to their level of anxiety.

If you can't answer their questions, don't guess. Use it as an opportunity to explore the answers together. Explain that some information online isn't accurate, and that it's best to trust the experts.

3. Show them how to protect themselves and their friends

One of the best ways to keep children safe from coronavirus and other diseases is to simply encourage regular handwashing. It doesn't need to be a scary conversation.

You can also show children how to cover a cough or a sneeze with their elbow, explain that it's best not to get too close to people who have those symptoms, and ask them to tell you if they start to feel like they have a fever, cough or are having difficulty breathing.

4. Offer reassurance

When we're seeing lots of troubling images on TV or online, it can sometimes feel like the crisis is all around us. Children may not distinguish between images on screen and their own personal reality, and they may believe they're in imminent danger. You can help your children cope with the stress by making opportunities for them to play and relax, when possible. Keep regular routines and schedules as much as possible, especially before they go to sleep, or help create new ones in a new environment.

If your child does feel unwell, explain that they have to stay at home/at the hospital because it is safer for them and their friends.

5. Check if they are experiencing or spreading stigma

The outbreak of coronavirus has brought with it numerous reports of racial discrimination around the world, so it's important to check that your children are neither experiencing nor contributing to bullying.

Explain that coronavirus has nothing to do with what someone looks like, where they are from or what language they speak. If they have been called names or bullied at school, they should feel comfortable telling an adult whom they trust.

6. Look for the helpers

It's important for children to know that people are helping each other with acts of kindness and generosity.

Share stories of health workers, scientists and young people, among others, who are working to stop the outbreak and keep the community safe. It can be a big comfort to know that compassionate people are taking action.

7. Look after yourself

You'll be able to help your kids better if you're coping, too. Children will pick up on your own response to the news, so it helps them to know you're calm and in control.

8. Close conversations with care

It's important to know that we're not leaving children in a state of distress. As your conversation wraps up, try to gauge their level of anxiety by watching their body language, considering whether they're using their usual tone of voice and watching their breathing or use the ROAR rainbow scale.

Remind your children that they can have other difficult conversations with you at any time.

#Resilient

Young children are going to remember how their family responded during difficult times. Our children are watching and learning about how to respond to stress and uncertainty. Let's build up our children's resilience rather than panic.

Stay APE

While you may be restricted in what you can do over the next few weeks you can still keep things in place to help you to look after your family's wellbeing.

One piece of advice from the Youth Connect 5 training is to plan things into your week to stay APE! Try and plan something each week to allow you to:

1) Feel like you have Achieved something

You could use this time to have a good spring clean or create a vegetable garden. We have also put together a few challenges for children and families to try and complete at home while schools are closed.

2) Connect with People

Even though we are being encouraged to keep social distance from people during this time, it's still important that we connect with friends and family. You could plan in daily video chats with your child's friends, grandparents or others.

3) Enjoy yourself

Try and use this time to play games as a family, do crafts and making sure that you get a daily dose of laughter. Remember to get fresh air and exercise regularly.

Take on a challenge

We have designed some resilience-building challenges for children to have a go at home. Encourage your child to complete one a day. Once schools are open again they can take their ticked off sheets back in and talk to their teachers about the things that they did.

For more ideas of how to build resilience in children and young people you can visit <https://resilienceframework.co.uk>

Resilience Challenges for 4-7 year olds

The Challenge

Completed

1 Draw a picture or write a note for your neighbour

☐

2 Copy a dance routine from another country

☐

3 Help to make a healthy snack

☐

4 Phone video call someone from your family that doesn't live in your house

☐

5 Do a household job to help out the grown-ups

☐

6 Play a game with someone older or younger than you

☐

7 Try and learn the word friend in another language

☐

8 Complete the work sent home for you from school

☐

9 Learn a new skill

☐

10 Draw or write in a diary at least 3 times a week

☐

11 Try a mindfulness exercise (ask an adult to help you find one)

☐

12 Sing at least once a day for a week

☐

13 Find a song about not giving up

☐

14 Draw a picture of yourself 10 years from now

☐

15 Read a book

☐

Competition Time!

Liverpool learning partnership will be hosting a competition over March and April. We are asking children to draw a picture or write a story or poem about how the people of Liverpool bounced back from a difficult time.

Send your entries to wsa@liverpoollearningpartnership.com and make sure to tell us your name and age. We will be tweeting about these stories as they come in. Winning stories and poems will be announced at the end of April. The top 5 entries will win some shopping vouchers (prizes announced when children are back in school). Good luck and get writing!

Resilience Challenges for 8-11 year olds

	The Challenge	Completed
	1 Do something kind for your neighbour	<input type="checkbox"/>
	2 Make up a dance routine using moves from another country	<input type="checkbox"/>
	3 Make a healthy snack or meal	<input type="checkbox"/>
	4 Phone someone from your family that doesn't live in your house	<input type="checkbox"/>
	5 Do a household job to help out the grown-ups	<input type="checkbox"/>
	6 Play a game with someone older or younger than you	<input type="checkbox"/>
	7 Try and learn a few phrases of another language	<input type="checkbox"/>
	8 Complete the work sent home for you from school	<input type="checkbox"/>
	9 Learn a new skill	<input type="checkbox"/>
	10 Draw or write in a diary at least 3 times a week	<input type="checkbox"/>
	11 Try a meditation exercise from youtube	<input type="checkbox"/>
	12 Sing at least once a day for a week	<input type="checkbox"/>
	13 Write a list of times when you have been resilient and kept going even when things were hard.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	14 Design a poster of yourself 10 years from now	<input type="checkbox"/>
	15 Read a book and review it for your friends	<input type="checkbox"/>

Competition Time!

Liverpool learning partnership will be hosting a competition over March and April. We are asking children to write a story or poem about how the people of Liverpool bounced back from a difficult time.

Send your entries to wsa@liverpoollearningpartnership.com and make sure to tell us your name and age. We will be tweeting about these stories as they come in. Winning stories and poems will be announced at the end of April. The top 5 entries will win some shopping vouchers (prizes announced when children are back in school). Good luck and get writing!

Advice for parents/carers

It's important to remember to take time to support yourself as well as your children during this time.

We will all be feeling a range of emotions at this time. Some of us are worried about our loved ones, anxious about paying bills or keeping our jobs, we may feel isolated and lonely and many of us are struggling with the uncertainty about what will happen over the next few weeks.

Try to take time to focus on yourself and how you feel. Do something positive like going for a walk, doing some exercise, reading a book or sorting out that cupboard that you've wanted to tackle for ages!

Whilst it is normal to feel worried, if you are starting to feel overwhelmed, it's important to acknowledge your feelings and speak to someone you trust, whether that's a friend, a family member, a teacher or a help-line such as the Samaritans

If you feel that you need support beyond this you can contact Talk Liverpool for further advice.

0151 228 2300 (Mon-Fri 8am-6pm)

talkliverpool@merseycare.nhs.uk

Focus on what's in your control

If you are feeling overwhelmed try to focus on 5 things that you can control. Write them down. For example you can't predict what will happen in a month's time, but you can plan a simple routine for you as a family to follow, plan your meals for the week and stay in touch with loved ones.

If news updates are making you anxious, consider limiting your checking of them to once or twice a day.

I'm worried about my child

If you are worried about your child's emotional wellbeing during this time here are a number of places where you can get advice and support.

We have also set up an online resource for you to look at. Please feel free to share it with your friends via Facebook and other social media platforms. To access it type the following into google search:

<https://wke.lt/w/s/Yd2pPk>

Alternatively you can scan this QR code:

How to get support

For all non-urgent queries concerning mental health and emotional wellbeing you can contact:

- Your GP
- Young Person's Advisory Service

Childline offer online support and can also be contacted by phone.

If your child is in urgent need of mental health support, or is feeling suicidal you can take them to:

- Your GP
- Call the CAMHS Crisis Care Team 0151 2933577
- Take them to A&E

More service information can be found at <https://www.liverpoolcamhs.com/>

