

Our School Mission Review

Parent/Carer Feedback

March 2023

Dear Parent/Carers,

Thank you to all 133 families who responded to the recent questionnaire. Your views are important to us and help us to review, adjust and improve our work.

Don't forget to check out the school website <https://stbrigidprimary.co.uk/> for further information about RE and Catholic Life at St Brigid's.

At St Brigid's, we are committed to promoting the teaching of the Catholic Church, not just during lesson times, but in those moments of awe and wonder that are present in each and every day. We use our Christian values to shape and nurture our children both in times of celebration and in times of need and place the love that Jesus has for each of us firmly at the heart of all that we do.

"The Christian ethos underpins the curriculum and pervades school life. St Brigid's motto, "Trusting in God – we love, believe and achieve."

Your positive comments: I feel that the faith of children is central to all learning and the daily lives of pupils of the school., I feel; love, believe and achieve recognises the ongoing journey the children take alongside God throughout their progression throughout their time at school and beyond. It encompasses the nurturing approach that is provided and considers the broader needs of the child with the children the focus.

Parent/Carer Feedback

March 2023

We are proud to say that our child displays all the attributes of the school mission. This is an outcome of the way the school promotes the core belief and motto of the school.

School does all it can to promote the mission.

Yes, in a variety of different ways.

The school is very informative in promoting the mission, The mission statement is beautiful and nurturing, the reason why I chose this school for my son.

Yes, the school is an asset to its community.

I believe the school incorporates the Mission through all their activities on some level.

I feel that school does promote the mission through worship in school and a range of communication and activities, as well as promoting parish activities.

I think the school does really well in communicating the mission to parents especially through newsletters and activities done in school with the students. The website is a really good representation of how much the school cares about developing a connection by trusting God you can love, believe and achieve.

Parents are regularly informed about what the pupils are covering as part of the mission and it promotes an amazing relationship with the local church which is great. My daughter enjoys religious education at school.

Yes - links on website, RE lessons & events.

I am happy with all events.

Our son enjoys and learn a lot in this school.

I can't fault anything of the school.

I feel proud of St Brigid's RE curriculum and ethos.

Yes, through acts of collective worship.

Yes, it always has done.

Yes, well promoted around the school.

Yes, I feel like you do your best to promote this.

Links on the website.

Yes – my daughter is a Little Ranger and she volunteers to help look after Little Woods.

Your suggested areas to work on:

I feel possibly more focus on teaching more hymns and prayers.

Other comments:

Parents aren't really involved. Not sure how it is shared in school.

Do you feel that the Mission statement is fit for purpose?

Your positive comments:

It is fit for purpose as our child is our living evidence. Well done and keep it up for greater achievement.

It encompasses the nurturing approach that is provided and considers the broader needs of the child with the children the focus.

Yes, I feel school mission statement is fit for purpose.

I think the statement fits nicely.

The mission statement is beautiful and nurturing, the reason why I chose this school for my son.

Yes, it helps shape & nurture our children.

It's a great mission statement.

Yes, by being an encouraging and inclusive mission.

It is short enough to remember but covers the points it needs to.

We agree with everything the mission statement stands for.

Always liked the mission statement.

Yes, St Brigid's is a brilliant school.

Your suggested areas to work on:

It's not unfit, I just feel like it could have more. I think the school is such a great addition to the local community and feel it should be referenced, such as Trusting in God - we are committed to providing a safe, stimulating and inclusive community, where all children feel loved, respected and encouraged to develop to their full potential.

Doesn't ring off the tongue like it could do eg Trusting in God to love, believe and achieve.

Other comments:

There isn't a lot of inclusion of parents. Before this dad was not sure what it was.
